Lee Orean Smith

DOB: Date Unknown (Crawfordsville, Indiana)
DOD: April 6, 1942 (Flushing, New York)

Lee Orean Smith originally wanted to be a painter; however, followed his father as into a career of music. Piano was his first instrument, followed shortly by violin, viola, and cello (which he played in his father's theater orchestra). After studying music theory, he joined a traveling theater orchestra. He later managed the band and orchestra department of the Leo Feist music publishing house, a position he held for over 20 years.

Maiden America (march and two-step). Published in 1916 by Leo Feist (New York). Smith's total output in published band music included titles showing pride in the USA, characteristic works and popular dance music. The title "Maiden America," a play on words also shows his sense of humor.
